MEAT BARONS' BIG PLANS DISCLOSED

Veeder Tells of $500,000,000
Corporation Planned in 1912

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 27.—Further details of the $500,000,000 corporation planned by the packers in 1912 were recited today by Albert H. Veeder, attorney for Swift & Co., who continued his dramatic story of the inside history of the Chicago meat packers' combination.

For the first time in the trial, which is staged before United States district judge Carpenter, Michael Cudaby was named as one of the four promoters of the colossal corporation by witness Veeder.

Mr. Veeder produced a contract dated July 18, 1902, by the terms of which Michael Cudaby became a partner of J. Ogden Armour, Gustavus F. Swift and Edward Morris in the proposed merger, each of whom deposited $1,000,000 in a Chicago bank as an evidence of good faith in carrying out the plan.

The contract, along with half a dozen other arguments, was read to the jury and offered in evidence by the government counsel.

The impeccable Sardine.

They can be given to children without fear of their choking. It can easily be recognized that the bones are taken away. A large number of consumers evidently judge thus, as sardines so prepared have a first class reputation. They are to be found on all tables where the lady of the house wishes to show she lives in style.—From an earnest advertisement.

The World's Chief Rug Market.
The world's increasing demand for Oriental carpets has caused certain changes in the rug business particularly tending toward an enlarged output through the intervention of merchants in Constantinople and Smyrna, who are establishing factories of Persian carpets in both Turkey and Persia. Another new feature of the rug business is the growing practice on the part of merchants in Constantinople of shipping direct to the United States from Persia instead of from Constantinople. This explains why the shipments of Persian rugs from Constantinople to the United States as consigned at this office show a decrease. On the whole Constantinople maintains its position as the world's principal rug market. German buys Oriental carpets in ever increasing quantities in order to satisfy her own requirements and those of Scandinavia, South Africa and Canada. Hamburg, being a free port, is becoming an important distributing center for Oriental rugs, more or less at the expense of London. It is figured that $8,250,000 worth of Caucasian and Persian rugs are shipped in a year from Constantinople and Smyrna, more than half of which go to Hamburg.
